

DISAPPEARANCE OF BROOKLINE HERESS Baffles Detectives

Three Missing Girls In Unsolved Mysteries

and the aid of personal friends was enlisted in Paris to supplement the efforts of the detectives.

That the girl, a private school student and a striking blonde, large for her age, slipped, is one of the theories held by the police, but not a shred of a clue to substantiate it has been uncovered.

She is not believed to be a suicide, although the search is encompassing this possibility.

First play locus as a vaguely possible explanation of her disappearance, and another theory is that she just ran away to escape an environment which may have been distasteful to her, although to most girls it would have seemed ideal.

Rosamond Morse is the daughter of Edward W. Morse, Jr., Hub broker, living on Fairmont st., Brookline. Her mother died when she was a little more than two years old. She was a brilliant student, an accomplished linguist and an all-around athlete at Miss May's school, Brookline.

With a decision on the part of her father to resort to publicity as his only hope, her description today was wired around the globe.

She Wanted to Find a Job as Governess or Tutor

Authorities working on the mystery think she may have quietly slipped away a little money before she went home—though to support her until she thought she could seek work as a governess or tutor on something of that sort without attracting attention.

From the same town from which Rosamond Morse disappeared, Grace Stevenson, also wealthy, vanished 21 years ago and never was found. But Miss Morse's father is still puzzled.

"We entertain neither a theory of a school girl runaway, nor of self-destruction," the father stated.

"We think she is working out some plan of her own, in her own way, and while we believe she is well and happy, we are somewhat despondently waiting to hear some word from her. She is fully capable of carrying out her plan, and had these plans in mind, but, with a confidence in any of us, set out by herself and we don't know where she is."

Rosamond was last seen at her home, 87 Fairmont st., Brookline, on retiring long before midnight, January 6. In the afternoon she had attended a party. Returning home, she packed her trunk, and then, after a long wait, she was seen to leave.

The girl retired in the room at three with her younger sister. No unusual sound was noted during the night.

Kept Her Secret So Well Friends Are All at Sea

Failing to find a single clue indicating that she had left the United States, a careful investigation of the girl's social contacts were made. Again the detectives were at a blank. If a man had entered her life, Rosamond had kept her secret well.

For none of the boys of her set had she indicated a preference. Her successful, competent type, studious, quiet, to be sure, but not a blazer, she was the normal girl of her age. If she had a secret, it was of the married life, she kept her secret well.

Brookline police, under Detective Sgt. Wilson Allen, checked every street from the town by steam and

Might Be Identified By Her Beautiful Hair

Patently, the search went on. Not a possible lead was uncovered. Every steamship leaving for France from the United States and Canada was carefully checked.

For days her selection as my summer clothing for her mysterious disappearance has been considered by the slushes. The obvious inference was, of course, that she responded to live in a warm climate. But she had no associations in warmer climates than was known to the investigators.

That the girl took three hats with her was regarded as only incidental. It is believed to have been a valuable leather outfit. Her jewelry was supposedly restricted to a possible string of beads.

Rosamond's hair, made her prominent. Very dark, she wore it up. Loose, it hung down to her waist.

Police officials today commenting on the case were inclined to turn to the two possibilities suggested by the private detectives. These were, on the one hand, that she had impelled her to leave her identity in a different world from in which she had been moving.

They point to the fact that the majority of missing girls in the class of Rosamond Morse do not give up lightly the association of their parents.

They regard the publicity in the case was not given sooner by Mr. and Mrs. Morse. The explanation of this, the broker stated today, is that the girl, a private school student and a striking blonde, large for her age, slipped, is one of the theories held by the police, but not a shred of a clue to substantiate it has been uncovered.

Gives 4 Reasons Why Girls Disappear

Following is an opinion by a noted Boston clergyman, a student of psychology, relative to the strange disappearance of 17-year-old Rosamond Morse of Brookline:

By REV. WILLIAM L. STIDGER
Of B. U. Theological School and Copley Methodist Church.

Individual psychological conditions cause American girls to disappear from their homes. Thousands of girls disappear from their homes in large American cities every year, but it is not caused by a general social condition.

No more girls disappear today than did appear 10 or 15 years ago. There is no difference in conditions now than 10 to 15 years ago. The number who disappear is not increasing. It is a general condition that has existed for many years.

I know nothing about the case of Rosamond Morse except what I read in the papers today. I do not know the girl and know nothing about the conditions of her home.

Girls generally disappear because of one of four reasons. They are:

1. Unhappy conditions at home.

2. Absentmindedness in the girl.

3. Lure of romance or adventure.

4. Neurotic condition of the girl.

As I said before the disappearance of American girls is not due to a general social condition, but to individual psychological conditions. Girls are disappearing all the time in large American cities and they will continue to. In my opinion the fact that four or five disappear does not indicate any general tendency. Hundreds of girls disappear from New York alone, every year.

I am sorry for the parents of Miss Morse. It is too bad they did not notify the papers sooner, although I can understand why the parents of any girl of that age who had disappeared would wish to avoid publicity.

Why Do Girls Leave Home? Pastor Tells

Rosamond Morse planned carefully her disappearance, in the opinion of a noted war chaplain. Here is his study of the mysterious vanishing:

By REV. WALLACE HAYES
Chaplain, United States Hospital, Rutland

I think the reason why girls disappear from American homes is because they become disillusioned with all the wonderful things that life might hold for them.

In their childhood and youth they are pictured to them in a highly colorful manner an idyllic, from reading and contact with the world, they become disillusioned. Later in life, when they are no longer children, they become disillusioned.

The motive for this impulse is the old human instinct of hiding when you fall. The girls feel that, some way or other, they have been failures.

In the case of Rosamond Morse, 17, daughter of a Brookline banker, from the information at hand, I think she became disillusioned and decided to leave everything behind. By her act of disappearance she thinks she has done that.

There is always a chance of foul play but I do not think anything of that sort happened in the case of the Morse girl.

She evidently planned her disappearance very carefully. Leaving her own bed at night, taking extra clothing with her, without giving her parents and other relatives any inkling of what she contemplated.

She had enough ingenuity and ability to carefully plan her disappearance. She undoubtedly has changed her name and no doubt her mode of living. She no doubt has made the impression she is an entirely different person.

WANTED FOR MISSING BLACK GIRL IN HUD

$5,000 REWARD FOR HER

TWO HOTELS ARE SEARCHED ON MONTREAL TIP

Belief that Miss Barbara Pitcher, beautiful 18-year-old niece of Sir Charles and Lady Blair, who disappeared from McGill University, Montreal, two weeks ago, is concealed in Boston was strengthened today through a lead picked up by police inspectors.

Following a search of two hotels at the request of Montreal authorities, inspectors James Egan and Thomas Mulvey conferred with Chief Inspector Alan C. Armstrong and then left for a Black Bay service station.

Chief Inspector H. Langewies, director of Montreal police, wired Supt. Michael H. Crowley he had reason to believe the missing girl, for whom a reward of $5000 has been offered, was brought to Boston in a Packard sedan.

The message said Miss Pitcher was presumably under the influence of drugs and that with her is a woman nurse. The car was operated by the kidnaper, Montreal reported, who is believed to have planned to take the girl to New Orleans. The driver is said to have registration plates for every State in New England and several on the main route to New Orleans.

The police have asked all service stations to watch for the suspected car, described as being black with blue trim.

The disappearance of Miss Pitcher, an art student at McGill, was as mysterious as that of Frances St. John Smith from Smith College.

Missing Montreal Girl Traced to Syracuse, N. Y.
Syracuse, N. Y. (INS)—Police believe they have definitely established that Barbara Pitcher, 18-year-old heiress and McGill University student, who disappeared from her home in Montreal, spent three days at a rooming house here and then departed for Erie, Pa.

BOSTON AMERICAN FILM ACTRESS IN WILD AUTO RACE

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1929

Offers to Give State Censors a Motion Picture Studio

On behalf of the film industry, Judge J. Albert Brackett today offered to furnish a place to view and hear "talkies" and sound motion pictures for state officials whose duty it is to censor Sunday entertainments.

The offer was made at a hearing held by the legislative committee on State administration on a bill authorizing the Department of Public Safety to charge $5 a reel for previewing sound pictures. The fee would help equip a test room for the new type of pictures and pay overhead costs.

Judge Brackett said: "We'll lease the place the department has in mind, give it full control, pay for equipment and operators."

Commissioner of Public Safety Foster opposed the offer, saying a State department should not lean on an outside organization for something the department should have.

Brackett said the theaters are already paying approximately $35,000 a year for previewing. Chairman Charles P. Howland said the project would amount to $13,800, no terrific burden on the industry.

JILT SUIITOR AND BEST MAN REVEALS 'LOST' GIRL OF 15
Lynn District court, which has played cupid heavily handed in the troubled love affairs of the new Mrs. Josephine McLaughlin, had more responsibility thrust upon it today when the bride's rejected suitor and his would-be best man appeared.

Both defendants were accused of having attempted to drown their sorrows in hard liquor and of having thereafter proceeded to pay an unsolicited courtesy call upon Mrs. McLaughlin and her recently acquired husband at McLaughlin's electrical shop in Sumner st.

So harrowing was the interview at the store that an emergency summons called the police riot squad.

The ex-fiance, John Vaselewski, 23, and the best-man-elect, Allan Comendall, 25, were arrested on charges of drunkenness.

Cases against both were today continued by the court until Friday.

The argument in the McLaughlin shop began, according to police, when Comendall, pleading Vaselewski's cause, asked Mrs. McLaughlin to give her former suitor back $100 which he claimed to have lavished upon her in the days of their budding friendship.

Rage mingled with the sorrow of the police at the loss of their four-footed friend, as they began a hunt for his slayer.

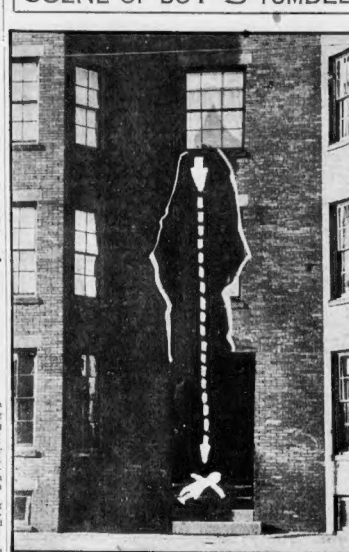

Equipped with a regulation police badge, pinned to his harness, Dynamite was a familiar figure on the streets as he trotted along beside a patrolman or made his own rounds.

BRIDGEWATER 'FOOTERS' HAD FISH CHOWDER

The story that a riot was caused among inmates of the State Farm at Bridgewater through the serving of turned beef on Good Friday was today brushed as untrue by Deputy Commissioner of Corrections Edward Bagley.

Bagley said he telephoned Supt. Henry J. Strann and was informed that beef was not the cause of trouble, that fish chowder was served to each of the 100 inmates, with red pudding, bread and tea.

Strann said that six or seven inmates who had been in the kitchen and attempted to seize a guard. In this melee three tables were tipped over and dishes and the floor. Three inmates who had caused trouble before were blamed for the melee.

The outbreak was under control in short order, according to Strann, but there was no chowder to release that when the beef was served were overturned and the cold beef was thrown away.

Only the men at the three upper tables were served with corned beef, Strann reported. He said he would furnish a written report tomorrow.

$250,000 LOSS WHEN PURITAN STORES FAILS

He would not volunteer any estimate of the losses.

The receivership followed a fraud order issued by the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities on January 14, prohibiting further sale of the company's securities in this Commonwealth.

Complaints and queries about the company have been pouring into the public utilities headquarters at the State House and the Boston Better Business Bureau, 22 Arch st., for weeks. Both of these departments made an exhaustive examination of the affairs and methods of the company.

The editor of the Department of Public Utilities reads:

"On January 14 a finding was made by this commission relative to the sale of the securities of the Puritan Stores Company, Inc., by the officers of said company, which failed to file certain information required to be furnished on or before September 25, 1928."

"The company dealt chiefly in so-called 'Gold Notes' for $500 calling for 5 per cent interest, payable quarterly. The name of Herbert M. Wachtel appeared on these notes as treasurer."

"The fact that the company never qualified its stock or these notes aroused the suspicion of the Department of Public Utilities and the Boston Better Business Bureau."

"Puritan Stores Company, Inc., was incorporated in Massachusetts March 28, 1927, with an authorized capitalization of $750,000 in 8 per cent preferred stock at $10 par and 28,000 shares of common stock of 'no par value.'"

"Herbert M. Wachtel, a former stock broker who specialized in silver and other mining stock, and was later identified with the famous Silver Fox Sales Company."

Walsh Raps Origins Plan as 'Humbug'

"The national origins plan is a humbug," said U. S. Senator David I. Walsh in a message from Washington to the Boston Evening American today.

Congress, he said, should follow President Hoover's view and "abandon this artificial scheme although purported to be based on origins."

DAVID I. WALSH

Senator Walsh's statement was given this paper in connection with the protest meeting to be held tonight by the Associated American Immigration Societies of Massachusetts at the State House, and at which the Democratic senator is an invited speaker. Among those invited to attend are Congressmen John W. McCormack, George Holden Tickham, John J. Douglas and William P. Conner. Resolutions will be drafted to back up the efforts of those planning repeal of the law.

Invitations have been extended to State and city officials and representatives of races whose quota has been cut in the new origins bill.

Congressman McCormack already has drafted a bill to be filed at the special session of Congress, and Senator Walsh will be requested to do the same thing in the Senate. With the backing of the resolutions passed by the Massachusetts legislature and the Boston City Council, the Central Labor Union and other organizations, the executives of the immigration association believe that something can be accomplished.

Senator Walsh in his statement declared:

"Whatever merit may have been claimed originally for a scheme of immigration quotas based upon so-called national origins of our population, subsequent events have demonstrated the fallacy of such computation and the gross discrimination which would result if such figures were employed."

"In my opinion the national origins plan is a humbug. The only adherents are a small group who admittedly see in it a means whereby immigration from certain countries may be favored at the expense of other nationalities. Many who know nothing of the plan except its name have been country of origin until 1880. An accurate quota based upon origins of 1700 is impossible.

"The changes of 140 years, both in Europe and this country, have been sweeping. Some of the greatest contributors to our national stock came after the revolutionary war and largely as a result of the war. Some of the sturdiest lovers of liberty came here because of persecutions at home, and their efforts and the efforts of their children have contributed tremendously to the growth and glory of America."

Under the national origins plan the great stream of Germans who came here because of the failure of the Prussian revolution of 1848 and the Irish who came here because of the famine in Ireland in the late '40s and early '50s and the sturdy Swedes who opened up the prairies of the West would be largely ignored.

"Other less pronounced inequalities would be perpetuated. Congress should follow President Hoover's view and abandon this artificial scheme, although purported to be based on origins."

"This will be one of the earliest duties of which the next Congress should dedicate its efforts."

Washington, April 3 (INS)—Gasoline taxes collected by the various states may be deducted by payers of federal income taxes, the Treasury ruled today.

Forty-seven of the states now impose gasoline taxes, ranging from 3 to 8 cents a gallon.

The ruling was made in the specific case of the State of Michigan, which has a 3-cent gasoline tax, but is equally applicable to all states.

Mrs. Abrams, known as an intimate friend of McCray, admitted she was the woman who had been calling Mrs. McCray and suggesting that her husband had been involved in "several affairs."

Mrs. M. A. Dickerson, mother of Mrs. Norma Smallwood Oliverman, "Miss America" in 1927, from whose home Mrs. Abrams called Mrs. McCray, also was questioned, and Mrs. Abrams furnished "valuable evidence," Coffey said.

McCray died from injuries received mysteriously in a hotel room.

ROTHSTEIN RING $250,000 DRUG CACHE SOUGHT

San Francisco, April 3—Known to be secreted in San Francisco as supply base for local operatives of the Rothstein ring, a cache of 5,000 ounces of narcotics, valued at more than $250,000, today is being sought by federal authorities here.

Direct information regarding the existence of the cache is in the hands of Narcotics Agent Harry V. Williamson, he announced, although the location of the cache remained in doubt.

This supply base, according to Williamson, has been under the direct control of Jack Shuman, intimate friend of the late Arnold Rothstein, slain New York racketeer and narcotic king and has been opened once daily at 8 p. m. for the purpose of "filling delivery."

Shuman, Mario Ballester and Phil Cohen were arrested by federal operatives Monday night, following a $20,000 transaction in narcotics in which dope valued in that amount was confiscated at the point of delivery.

AGENT THREATENED

Developments followed rapidly on the heels of the arrest, outstanding among these being:

1. Revelation of the $200,000 supply base cache.

2. Declaration by Williamson that the arrested trio had attempted to bribe the undercover agent in the case after they had failed in an attempt to shoot their way to freedom, and failing again in this had threatened to "get him and get him good."

3. Shuman quickly raised $10,000 bail ordered by United States Commissioner Arthur Pisk, while Cohen and Ballester remained in jail pending arraignment before the commissioner this morning. Shuman will also be arraigned at that time.

4. Government officials charged that Joe Palumbo and Joe Contino, arrested several days ago as peddlers, are connected with the Rothstein ring.

5. The accused trio retained Attorney Clifford Russell of Sacramento and John Traft of San Francisco as counsel to defend them.

SMART AUDIENCE GREET'S VINCENT CLUB SHOW

Fond Parents Present to Applaud the Histrionic Efforts of Daughters

SOCIETY WAS BOTH SIDES OF THE FOOTLIGHTS LAST evening, at the Plymouth Theater. In the caustic and shilling glare of the stage lights, the Vincent Club members, dressed in their best, demonstrated to their own and everyone else's great satisfaction a theatrical way not at all amateurish in an annual Vincent Varieties executed with dash and finish. In the audience was every dancing parent and every smiling mother whose darling daughter had received the accolade of Vincent membership this season, and had moved on to debuts in a place in one of the "shows" or in a "specialty."

The title says and wisely had the club's leaders called from club ranks every girl who possesses a voice or a facility with the dance, and put her into the show.

SO, REAPING THE GREAT REWARDS FOR THEIR TOLDORE

hours and days and weeks of "rehearsal" that bloomed so fulsomely in results last evening the club scored another hit. Even the most captious critic, discounting the keen appreciation shown by Big Brother and Little Sister, and Fond Parents, will admit that the Varieties are a success from the first pretty-frocked number up to the final curtain. Certainly, the pretty girls in their fluttering white silk frocks so pert, and their beauteous slippers so twinkling, struck the popular note in the opening number.

AND CERTAINLY THERE WAS A CRESCENDO MOVEMENT IN vim and dash and finish hearteningly reassuring to those who seek the dollars for the Vincent Memorial Hospital. Diligently will the social set flock into the Plymouth Theater—for every evening performance and every matinee the Vincent girls have in store for their adoring public. Mrs. Edwin Shiley Webster's presence in the orchestra was only a single evidence of the many that the older generation take their Vincent Club seriously. Mrs. Webster was handsome in black velvet and pearls. Likewise, the handsome young men, Mrs. Roger Wolcott, an interested and appreciative spectator, with Mr. Wolcott.

THE ELEGANT GOLDEN HEAD OF MRS. WILLIAM H. BOHNER, JR., and the closely coiffed raven tresses of Mrs. Cora Conway Follen were close together in one of the boxes. Time was, and not so very long ago when these two waved innocently through annual Vincent Club Fashion Shows, and sang and danced with the dash and abandon of Boston's favorite society actresses. Mrs. Frederick Bunker's blonde prettiness in the audience matched the golden locks of her sister, Miss Louise Fessenden, bubbly girlish in her regulation polo outfit, singing a special number in the first act.

GLAD WHO MADE HITS LAST SEASON WATCHED WITH keenest interest the current debuts and performance—Miss Virginia Ayres, Miss Harriet Sallent, Miss Betty Soule, Mrs. Andrew Nickerson Winslow, Jr., the latter with a family party that included her sister, Miss Louise Fessenden, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Soule. Mrs. John Swan showed the latest in dress, especially when the blonde bond of the family, Miss Margarette Swan, appeared in a pretty Spanish "Star of the Night," a number alighted by the voices of Mrs. Thomas Blumer and Mrs. Frederick Braden, Jr., and sinuously performed by the Bragioni dancing, Miss Francesca, the senior, and Miss Gloria, the first junior.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES J. PHELAN OF CHIEWICK RD., BROOK LINE, have gone North from Palm Beach after a two months' vacation. Mrs. Phelan is at present in Washington, D. C., visiting with friends during the Easter holidays, and will have the Misses Priscilla, Patricia and Virginia Phelan. Before returning to Boston, Mrs. Phelan

Mrs. James J. Phelan of Chiewick rd., Brookline, who wintered at Palm Beach and is now in Washington visiting friends for the Easter holidays. Before returning to Brookline, Mrs. Phelan will visit her married daughter, Mrs. Henry Milton Lyons in Bronxville. The other daughters, Priscilla, Patricia and Virginia, are with their mother in Washington.

Describes Hard Life in Kentucky Hills

Painting a vivid word picture of the incredible hardships suffered by Kentucky mountaineers, Mrs. Elizabeth McElroy, former field secretary for the Human Settlement school, asked the Jamaica Plain Tuesday Club for tolerance in judging a people often misunderstood and condemned for making "moonshine" liquor.

"The only medicine these people knew about was liquor, which they distilled themselves from the only crop they can grow on those steep mountain sides," she explained. "Unless you have seen these mountains with no valleys between, only narrow creeks dividing them, you cannot conceive of the terrible struggle to eke out an existence there."

"Doctors, nurses, medicines, schools, ministers, undertakers, were scarce and very scattered in those regions prior to 1935 when churches began establishing settlement schools along some of the creeks. Almost impassable roads for months at a time, no recreation, no trained help in times of birth, death or accident. What wonder that they felt that the Government had no right to take away their only remedy for sickness and their only source of income!"

The natives of the Kentucky, Tennessee and Georgia mountains (the purest Nordic strain in America today, she asserted, referring to them as "our contemporary ancestors") long isolated from civilized contacts but intensely eager for "civilization." They were settlers from the early English colonies who until recently observed Christmas in the old English 12th night manner on January 12.

SEEN LEARNING NOW Five clubwomen from the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, who responded to an appeal from a missionary in 1902 to go into the mountains and teach the people how to live were denigrated by the natives because they were over 21 years old and still unmarried. "But the schools have worked remarkable changes," Mrs. McElroy said. "Instead of getting drunk for recreation the young men try to learn everything possible, even sewing. In spite of their extreme poverty 20 out of every 11 graduates work out of their own colleges. The majority are deeply religious and think that, because they do not believe in God is feeble minded and to be pitied. The schools are acting as a great force in the people emerging from almost primitive simplicity into the complexities of civilization."

MARGARET SPRING FROLIC Margaret Nichols, daughter of Mayor Nichols, will be one of 30 children representing the fairies ushering in the annual "Spring Frolic" of the clubwomen at the Plymouth Theater tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in Hotel Statler ballroom. Little Miss Nichols will give a fairy dance. The affair will be an elaborate costume carnival fest.

Remove it daily to keep teeth white and sound

DENTAL science knows what robe teeth of brilliant whiteness. It is film.

It clings to teeth and gets into crevices and stains. It absorbs stains from food and smoking and turns white teeth "off color" and clouds their brilliance. Film hardens into tartar. Gums by millions breed in it, and they, thus, further, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

MORE GREATER BOSTON GIRLS NOMINATED

Now comes Cliftondale with its typical American girl, and South Braintree, Lynn and Sack Bay as well.

Of course there is lots of competition in the field but these four sections of Massachusetts seem pretty confident that they have produced the Typical American Girl for whom Smart Set Magazine and the Boston Evening American are looking to bestow upon her the $5,000 award and the additional award of a trip to Paris, London and Berlin.

Here is a letter nominating Miss Ingrid M. Paridon, from Corinne E. Sahl:

"I wish to nominate Miss Ingrid M. Paridon, whose address is 78 Aberdeen ave., Cliftondale, as an entry in the Typical American Girl Quest.

B. U. GIRL

"She is five feet four inches tall, weighs about 120 pounds and is 24 years of age. She has beautiful, long, golden hair; large, hazel eyes, an enchanting smile and has a perfect pink-and-white complexion. She is educated, refined, well-mannered and courteous at all times and I feel that with the additional assets of health, beauty and brains she has all the requirements of the Typical American Girl.

"She was graduated with honors from the Lynn English high school, where she took a very active part in school activities. She was a bank director, assistant editor of the school magazine, which she made several literary contributions, and at graduation she was elected to represent her class at its historic.

BACK BAY ENTRY

"She is attractive, dresses well, is vivacious and full of fun, and is well-liked by all with whom she comes in contact. Considering her as I do, I feel confident that she is THE Typical American Girl."

Then follows the nomination of Miss Helen Elve, by E. P. Guy, 28 Jay St., Boston:

"I wish to nominate as a Typical American Girl, Miss Helen Elve, 328 Commonwealth ave., Boston.

"Miss Elve weighs 115 pounds and is five feet six and one-half inches tall. Her eyes are of hazel color, her hair is dark blond and is not bobbed; her skin is fair.

"After completing a high school course Miss Elve attended business school where she received training that enabled her to obtain a position in a State St. office, where she has been for three years.

EXCELLENT G'OK

"In the list of her hobbies Miss Elve includes bridge and chess. She is also an excellent cook. In addition I might add a word as to Miss Elve's personality which is individual and delightful; her voice is soft and well modulated; she is modest in appearance and manner. She is careful and neat in her dress and well read in affairs of the day.

The others nominated are Gertrude E. Lunt, 95 Elmawn rd., South Braintree; and Ruthie E. Lee, 28 Essex st., Lynn.

Persons who nominate candidates who have no photographs to accompany the nominations, may have them made without charge by applying to the Quest Editor, Boston Evening American, Room 305, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, during the next two weeks.

All photographs and nominations bearing the postmark mid-night, April 12, will be accepted.

'COSTS A GREAT DEAL TO BE PRESIDENT,' SAYS COOLIDGE IN STORY

WAYS OF PROVIDENCE OFTEN BEYOND OUR UNDERSTANDING

In my day and elaborate plans made to encompass the destruction of this or that public man.

I cannot now think of any that did not react with overwhelming force upon the perpetrators, sometimes destroying them and sometimes giving their proposed victim an opportunity to demonstrate his courage, strength and soundness, which increased his standing with the people and raised him to higher office.

There is only one form of political strategy in which I have any confidence, and that is to try to do the right thing, and sometimes being able to succeed.

Many people at once began to speak about nominating me to lead my party in the next campaign. I did not take any position in relation to their efforts. Unless the nomination came to me in a natural way, rather than as the result of an artificial campaign, I did not feel it would be of any value.

People's Choice Selection of President Up to Voters

The people ought to make their choice on a great question of that kind without the influence that could be exerted by a President in office.

After the favorable reception which was given to my message, I stated at the Gridiron dinner that I should be willing to be a candidate. The convention nominated me the next June by a vote which was practically unanimous.

With the exception of the decision of my nomination, I did not attend any partisan meetings or make any purely political speeches during the campaign. I spoke several times at the dedication of a monument, the observance of the anniversary of an historical event, at a meeting of some commercial body or before some religious gathering. The campaign was managed by William M. Butler, and as it progressed the final result became more and more apparent.

My own participation was delayed by the death of my son Calvin, which occurred on July 7. He was a boy of much promise, proficient in his studies, with a scholarly mind, who had just turned 16.

He had a remarkable insight into things. The day I became President he had just started to work in a tobacco field. When one of his fellow laborers said to him, "If my father was President I would not work in a tobacco field," Calvin replied, "If my father were your father, you would."

After he was gone someone sent me a letter he had written about the same time to a young and who had congratulated him on being the first boy in the land. To this he had replied that he had done nothing, and so did not deserve the title, which should go to "some boy who had distinguished himself through his own actions."

Price in Grief "With Him Went Power, Glory of Presidency"

We do not know what might have happened to him under other circumstances, but if I had not been President he would not have raised a blister on his toe, which resulted in blood poisoning playing lawn tennis in the South grounds.

In his suffering he was asking me to make him well. I could not. When he went the power and the glory of the presidency went with him.

The ways of Providence are often beyond our understanding. It seemed to me that the world had need of the work that it was possible he could do.

I do not know why such a price was exacted for occupying the White House.

Sustained by the great outpouring of sympathy from all over the nation, my wife and I moved to the Supreme Court and with such courage as we had went on in the discharge of our duties.

Office Costly Duties of Presidency Bar Way to Dying Father

In less than two years my father followed him. At his advanced age he he was passing his last days. I sent to bring him to Washington, but he clung to his old house.

It was a sore trial not to be able to be with him, but I had to leave him where he most wished to be. When his doctors advised me that he could survive only a short time, I started to visit him, but he sank to rest while I was on my way.

For my personal contact with him during his last months I had to resort to the poor substitute of the telephone.

It costs a great deal to be President.

B. U. Choristers to Give Concert

Clouston Jackson, director of the chorus, will conduct in numbers from Palestrina, Brahms, Handel, O'Hara and Morley. A number of Scottish and German folk songs will also be included in the concert program.

3 Western States Hit Oil Program

Denver, April 3 (AP)—In a letter to President Hoover, the Governors of Wyoming, Utah and Colorado said "the interests of the Rocky Mountain states will be seriously affected" by the new oil conservation policy of the Government, which will have a disastrous effect upon the development of oil producing public land states. The Governors reached the conclusion that there is "too over-production of oil and waste of oil in the Rocky Mountain states."

DRUG REFINERS OFFERS FOR HIT

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

NEW YORK, April 3.—W. A. Brady has refused Dr. W. A. Work Griffith's offer for the film rights to "Street Scene."

He also turned his back on all the producers who have reached out grabbing fingers for this sensational stage success. Not that W. A. Brady didn't like money and wouldn't be willing to make a few extra thousand dollars, but he wants to produce "Street Scene" himself.

He figures that he can take the case now appearing at the New York courts and introduce them to the agents. They have the vote, he knows that. As for the personality well, most of them should have it. Erin O'Brien-Moore and Harriet Braham, who play the juvenile leads, are charming young people. Certainly, unless through some frank of unexpected camera difficulty, they ought to photograph well.

He knows his movies, too. He was president of the World Film

Co., when life in the motion picture industry was none too pleasant.

Later he was president of the National Film Association; and he's had his experiences.

I look to see "Street Scene" go into production a little later when the freented stars have been storming the Playhouse—and that language it name is not the least when one takes into consideration how difficult it is to get tickets.

ALTHOUGH it will be well to ward the first of July before

Mae Murray makes "Peacock Alley," her fight for Tiffany-Stahl

Babson plans are now being made for her return to the cinema. Ricardo Cortez has been chosen to play opposite her and John Stahl will direct. "Tiffany-Stahl" seems to believe that La Belle Murray is great in the talkies. What, with music synchronized to her words and words put in her mouth, the old drama that used to fill the theaters will once again be popular.

It certainly will be the fault of

Warner Brothers if Pauline

Frederick makes a failure of "Detdement." They are giving her a cast that is hand-picked. Such as Lowell Sherman, Conway

Tearle and Conrad Nagel are to play opposite her. All these men have had years of experience on the stage and have voices that have been tried and found wanting in the talkies.

Funny thing about these Warner

Brothers. They seem to be leasing and every day they are necessary for good pictures. Who would have foretold 10 years ago that today Warner Brothers and William Fox would be in control of the great motion picture industry?

It's all like a miracle.

LOOKS to me as if Anita Stewart will find a very nice little circuit to make talking pictures. Ben Meredith, who she is touring with, is for her when she returns from her vaudeville tour. According to reports from various cities, she had the crowds at the vaudeville house standing in line to see her.

She returned to Hollywood to spend Easter, and confided to a few close friends that she had a very good chance in June. Her next vaudeville stop is in Chicago, where she opens at the Oriental Theater on April 6. Converses is the young millionaire who recently acquired a divorce at Reno and who has been sponsoring these vaudeville trips of his fiancée.

SO often our scenario writers have nervous chills and worry over the encroaching power of the dramatist. Ben Meredith is one that can laugh off the playwrights' power, for he has proved that he can write dialogue like a streak and turn out talkies with the best of 'em. Ben has just written an original which he gathers from inside information, is going to be a new production.

Irving Thalberg, who has always had great confidence in Miss Meredith, gave her the assignment just to prove to the palpitating world that it is not always necessary to have outside talent to turn out revels and dramatic specialties.

THE irresistible Duncan was headed for Hollywood, and

film city. Hymie and Jake, who are known to their intimates, confessed that they had a movie contract in the offing. They expect to negotiate a contract with

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to do the specialties in the talkies. They seem already just about to sign or just about to sign. But sign or not Hollywood will be seeing them for they have many friends in the movie colony.

Open Drive to Cut Mishaps

Every police chief in the State was today urged to co-operate in making the highways "safe for life and limb" by Registrar of Motor Vehicles George A. Parker.

In his letter of appeal, the registrator declared that about 80,000 motor vehicles will be on the public highways this season, not including the many summer visitors.

"It is incumbent upon us to do everything possible to restrain the spilly drives and to keep down the load of toll killed and injured," he declared.

"Unless we do this, the list of 712 deaths in 1928 will be regrettably longer in 1929. Your social assistance in requested in cases of intoxicated and ill-and-run drivers, and in flagrant cases of defective highlights and brakes."

In closing the registrar lauded the help given by the police in lessening the hazards to school children through educational and protective work.

"If those who are interested in law enforcement would attend the courts and by their presence and interest signify their desire to see the guilty punished it would have a great effect on juries. It would have an effect too on many judges in the absence of an asserted public opinion, and it would show light fines and penalties. If a judge knows his record is being watched he will be more careful."

Dr. McBride doesn't think that the courts will be more careful.

The courts, but the wets do and the judges are not. It is a very congregational drive.

Three dry senators expressed the opinion today that this is going a little too far.

UPHOLD SEARCH

OF FISH YACHT

Washington, April 3 (INS)—

Charges that customs guards used abusive tactics in searching the yacht of Stuyvesant Fish, New York millionaire, were under investigation by the Treasury Department today.

A report on the incident was submitted today to Assistant Secretary Seymour Lowman by Customs

Commissioner E. J. Sherman, after which Lowman declared the customs patrol was entirely within its rights in boarding the yacht.

No other features of the search will be gone into except that pertaining to alleged profanity and other rough language by the patrol.

The customs crew maintained they used the utmost courtesy in searching the ship. The report showed the customs patrol fired into the air with pistols as a signal for the fish yacht to stop. No shots were fired at the yacht, according to its report.

WORLD CUT OFF ARMY, NAVY, ENGLAND

London, April 3 (AP)—The principal type of political advertising in London today was a demonstration of the Independent

Labor Party at the House of Parliament to vote against all war credits.

Thus, if the labor party should form a new government after the forthcoming elections, the Independent Labor Party section, which numbered 117 in the present house, and is largely composed of advanced socialists and intellectuals of the labor movement, would be expected to oppose all appropriations for army, navy and air forces.

The press generally criticizes the Independent Labor Party action and even the laborists heralds point out that this policy already has been rejected by the labor party itself.

Break, 8 Years Ago

Providence, April 3 (AP)—George police here today, saying that he forged his father-in-law's name eight years ago in a check for $100,000 looked up at Barnstable, Mass.

He had been to Texas and California.

Returning home, he learned that his father had died, and was overcome by the police.

Hyde Park Whist

morrow afternoon in Newman

Church of the Most Precious

Blood. Mrs. Charles Foley and Mr.

Garibaldi Will 'Free'

Wife for 'Chivalry'

New York, April 3 (AP)—The New York American today

said that Gen. Giuseppe (Peppino)

Garibaldi, grandson of the Italian liberator, had taken steps to annul his marriage to Mrs.

Maidelyn Nichols Taylor Garibaldi

as a "move of chivalry" towards his wife.

The basis for the action is an attempt to clear up technicalities arising out of Garibaldi's Married divorce from Stevenson Pierce

Taylor. Mrs. Garibaldi, however, said her husband was actuated by a desire to save both of them from unpleasant divorce proceedings and that he had agreed to remain

the "trust friends."

Mrs. Garibaldi is the daughter of Mrs. W. Nichols, wealthy St. Louis

resident. She was married in 1922 to Taylor, a New York business man, from whom she obtained a divorce in Yucatan in 1923. She married Gen. Garibaldi in January, 1928.

GIRL, MARY ANN

AUTO

Columbus, O., April 3 (AP)—E.

A. Walsh, auditor of the Cuyahoga

Milling Company, and Eleanor Porter, a stenographer in the company's offices, were shot to death today

in an automobile near New Albany,

Ohio.

County authorities believe Walsh killed the girl and then turned the gun on himself.

Walsh was married and the father of two children.

Coroner John Murphy said indicated that the shooting occurred at an early hour today.

The automobile was stopped in the middle of the road and there were two bullet holes in the windows of the car.

Six-Day Novel by a Famous Author

A deluge sweeps over the civilized world. Martin Webster, a lawyer, saves his wife, Helen, and two children in the flood, but is cut off from them by the waters. He thinks they must be dead. Claire Arlington, young and beautiful wife of a middle-aged invalid, also escapes death, and swimming to a bit of land, runs across Jephson and Norwood, darts like herself. She overheard them fighting over her. She swims to another point of land and is picked up by Martin, who manages to get her to a tunnel where he has sought refuge. After various perilous experiences she is captured by a leader of a gang of lawless men, taken to their camp and left securely bound.

MARTIN WEBSTER had a personality that must now prove itself under new conditions and adapt or perish. Claire was the acquaintance of a few hours only, but already he had resolved to possess her.

From concealment he watched the monstrous strength which beat her into passivity. Wrath came to him as he watched, and the wish to kill, but his self-control was unshaken. The dusk favored him. As the giant strode on, he turned of his own strength to expect pursuit or to dread it. Martin followed him closely.

Silently he managed to cut the handle that bound her ankles. The bag saw and screamed; Claire was on her feet and they got away in the darkness hearing the sounds of pursuit. They dropped down into a nest of brambles and lying side by side, the thoughts of excitement turned inevitably to the companion that fate had brought so strangely, and to a swift intimacy. In Martin's mind there was an exhilarating sense of victory and possession. He was elated by the success of his rescue. What he had won, he would hold. Claire was less sure of herself. She was grateful for her deliverer, but she was not one who gives lightly or decides on impulse.

As the tension ended Claire became conscious of the arm that held her. She endeavored to move apart, but Martin held her so will to loose her. Rather, he drew her closer. "Please," she said, as she endeavored to release his arm. She tried to speak lightly, but there was a nervous note in her voice that betrayed agitation. "You are mine, now," he whispered in reply. "I will never loose you."

A sudden anger seized her. She struggled fiercely, pulling her right arm free from his. "Loose me now," she said, "or you will be sorry in a moment."

He knew that she had a knife and he challenged her boldly. "You can kill me, if you will; but while I live I will never loose you."

There was a moment's silence. "You know I cannot," she said at last, "but I can cut your arm till you move it."

He laughed at that, forgetting the night in the camp that might hear him. "If you cut one arm, I shall use the other," he answered. "It is only death that will part us. While we live you are mine."

"For always," she said doubtfully, but with a new tone in her voice that was in itself surrender.

"For always, and always," he answered, and he heard the knife drop from her hand. "It is all so strange," she said in a low tone, as though she thought aloud, "and so different. I don't know..."

URGES SO. BOSTON TUNNEL TO HUB BAR Association Votes on Repeal of U.S. Dry Laws

MEMBERS ASKED FOR OPINIONS ASKS USE OF OLD TUNNEL

A referendum on the question of the repeal of the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act is being taken among its members by the Boston Bar Association.

Following similar action by legal associations in other cities, the Council of the Association has asked its members to express their opinion on the subject.

The Council has received a communication from The Volstead Committee of Lawyers, Inc. (an organization of lawyers in New York City) calling attention to resolution adopted by the Law Association of Philadelphia, the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the New York County Lawyers' Association, and others, advising the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

"The Council has voted to obtain from the members of the association an expression of their opinion on the subject."

"On the enclosed card a form of resolution is set out similar to that adopted by the New York Bar Association. Will you kindly mark this card with your vote for or against the adoption of the resolution, sign your name and return the same promptly to the secretary."

The card is headed "Proposed Resolution," and reads: "Whereas, the Bar Association of the city of Boston believes that the 18th Amendment is inconsistent with the spirit and purpose of the Constitution of the United States, and in derogation of the liberties of the citizens and rights of the states; and in derogation of the first 10 amendments thereto; therefore, be it resolved that it is the sense of this association that the 18th Amendment, the Volstead Act, and all orders and regulations for the enforcement thereof, be repealed, and the subject of prohibition be remitted to the sole regulation of the several states."

THE QUESTION Do you know the establishment of the proposed state industrial commission is, during construction and is of great value to the commonwealth? Through the medium of the commission Massachusetts will be able to advise the great pleasures that can be received here by visitors from our sister states. Other states have attempted to boom up there and have been fairly successful, although they have not probably half as much to show visitors as we have.

M. A. BARNES, 32 Oak Street, South Weymouth, salesman. The establishment of the proposed commission is just another step that should be taken. The advancement of this state above several others. Other states have gone ahead so there is not any reason in my mind why we can't do the same. We have the material to work with and the tools to do the job. All that is lacking is the financial assistance to put it across and make Mammoth the playground of the East.

Dundee's Contract for Title Bout Is Filed Here

CHAMPION STOGET
$60,000

Mello, McLarin, Fields and Thompson Named as Possible Opponents

By JACK CONWAY
MATCHMAKER ADDIE MACK today placed on file with the Massachusetts Boxing Commission at the State House, a contract calling for the services of Joe Dundee in a bout for the world's welter-weight championship against Al Mello, Jackie Fields, Jimmy McLarin or Young Jack Thompson. Under the terms of Dundee's contract he is to receive a guarantee of $60,000.

The title match will be placed at Braves Field in June, under the direction of the Boston Garden.

Mack, like other persons named in the boxing game, does not take seriously the action of the National Boxing Association in stippling Dundee of his title and awarding it to Jackie Fields as a result of the latter's win over Young Jack Thompson.

Dundee will return to Boston next week to go through the postponed match with Mello at the Boston Garden, a work from which Mello has been training at Jim Toland's gym and is confident he will once more claim the champion.

MACK has completed his card for the weekend series between Otto Von Furst and Johnny Rizzo on Friday night. The second 15-round will bring to either Jimmy Byrne of Louisville and Phil Marcuro of New York.

Eddie Adams, Irish middleweight, will make his debut in the Garden when he will face Hans Hanson, middleweight champion of Norway, who is here with Von Furst. This match is billed for six frames.

Another all-around set will bring together Murray Lyon of New York and Al Rizzo of New York, while Marvin Schuler, Ernie Schuler's sparring partner, will oppose Johnny Urban of New York.

Johnny Moore of the North End and Frank Zereff will step four frames.

EIGHT CHICAGO BOXERS ENTER

For the first time in many years, Chicago will make a serious bid for recognition at the national amateur boxing championships, held at the Boston Arena next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Tom Keady, manager of the championships, has received eight entries from the Windy City.

Chicago always has taken passing interest in the national title bouts, sometimes entering two or three boxers, but this year, the mid-western city has entered a complete team and judging by reports from that city, they are confident of bringing back some titles.

The star of the Chicago team is expected to be Bob Stone, a hard-hitting heavyweight, who has cleared up the amateur ranks in the West. He is a giant and carries a tremendous punch.

Many Enter Legion Post Road Race
A large number of entries are being received for the annual 10-mile handicap road race, to be held on the Michael J. O'Connell Post, No. 74, American Legion, of Jamaica Plain, held on the morning of Patriots' Day, April 19.

There are 10 beautiful awards in all. Entry blanks and further information may be obtained from William J. Brennan, manager, 129 South St., Jamaica Plain, or reach him by telephone, Jamaica 5277, any evening after 8 o'clock.

RACQUET QUEEN

Sarah Palfrey is defending her U.S. girls' indoor tennis singles title at the Longwood courts this week. She defeated her sister, Joanna, today in the quarter final, 6-4, 6-1.

Another sister, Mianne, won her way into the lower quarter final.

Training Camp Notes

Dallas, Tex., April 3 (AP)—Rebellion among the White Sox players is at an end today with Russell Blackburne, manager of the club, in the role of supreme dictator.

Blackburne, backed up by Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the club, ordered Al Shires, one of the rebels, to play baseball. Bill Cissell, the young shortstop charged with violating training rules, was reinstated.

Blackburne's action of suspending the pair and then following it with a warning, a promising first baseman, to leave camp, seems to have produced a salutary effect on certain players who have grumbled over the inconvenience of playing exhibition games in small "cage" lots.

Shires, rated as one of the best prospects coming to the American League in recent years, was made acting field captain two weeks ago and then stripped of his rank for insubordination. He is said to be in no condition as a result of keeping late hours and breaking other training rules.

Houston, Tex., April 3 (AP)—George Grantham, second baseman, was added to the list of White Sox players who have been suspended.

Houston, Tex., April 3 (AP)—Habe Ruth has not forgotten that he would be a bona fide player and Al Smith not so long ago just as hard as the ex-governor of New York.

RED SOX GROUP

SEEK FOR BOSTON

Bradenton, Fla., April 3.—The initial group of Red Sox players left here for Bradenton, Fla., today, who is to be treated to a sore arm in Boston, Frank Burney, Hugh Harmon, Dan Shanahan, Fred Monewick, Harry O'Boyle, Charlie Small and Ed Connelly are in the bunch.

The trip will work out at Fenway Park with the Pittsburgh team, managed by Shomo Collins, on arrival in the Hub. Benny Frey, right-hander, has been sent back to the Nashville club.

In their final game with the Buffalo Bisons the Sox showed a lot of punch. The Sox hammered the Buffalo pitchers for a flock of base hits, winning the war by a 3-to-0 count.

Milton Gatchett pitched the first five innings for the Sox. He was weak for the first two but buttoned up and held the Buffalo batters in check the last part of his stay on the mound.

Ed Morris tossed the four concluding innings for the Sox and allowed just two hits, neither of which did any harm. Morris looked great. He had the opposing batters at his mercy, although he did not extend himself.

Tech Marks—

Win Rifle Title

The M. I. T. rifle team won the New England collegiate championship by defeating Norwich University, 134 to 132, in the final National Rifle Association league match of the season.

The Engineers have a clear record of six victories and no defeats while Norwich is placed second with four victories and two defeats. By virtue of the Tech victory over Norwich, the Engineers avoided a possible tie for first place.

MEET THE NEW BRAVES

No. 4—George Harper

George Harper, outfielder, came from the St. Louis Cardinals, the Braves paying cash for him. He is 24 years old and a native of Paducah, Ky. He drifted into Arkansas while a youngster, played semi-pro ball around that State and bought himself a sarnail at Mobile. He was picked up by a Detroit scout. During the war he was let out by the Tigers, and went back to semi-pro for two years. Then he was taken up by the Phillies, and remained with the club until the end of the '24 campaign. The Glans had him in '27 and during the winter sold him to the Cardinals. Harper has been a consistent 300 hitter, and for the past four years has been up with the leaders in the matter of home runs. He's the oldest player on the Brave squad.

Operate to Save Thevenow's Life

Lakeland, Fla., April 3 (AP)—Physicians today decided an operation was necessary for Tommy Thevenow, shortstop of the Philadelphia Nationals, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident between here and Winter Haven late yesterday. His recovery was expected.

Lakeland, Fla., April 3 (AP)—Critically injured in an automobile crash late last night, Tommy Thevenow, shortstop for the Philadelphia National League baseball club, early today was reported "resting fairly well" by physicians at Memorial Hospital.

Harold Elliott, a member of the club's pitching staff, who was with Thevenow in the accident, also was taken to the hospital, but was later discharged after he was given treatment for bruises.

By TAD

Ann Barkdale, a Winter Haven deputy sheriff, said Thevenow and Elliott left there shortly before 9 p. m. for Lakeland, where they expected to visit friends. Thevenow, he said, apparently misjudged the speed at which an approaching car was traveling, his left front wheel striking the left rear wheel of the passing car.

Thevenow's car left the roadway and overturned. It was badly wrecked. J. T. Koot, an Illinois tourist, driver of the other automobile, was not hurt. Koot's home address was not learned.

Braves in Shape for Any Competition

By NICK FLATLEY
Jacksonville, Fla., April 3.—The 1929 Boston Braves are chugging up out of the South.

The team has finished all but the last little bit of training and is as well set physically for whatever fate may be, as any team in the country.

The Braves are in perfect spring condition, and if they have it in them to get into the race, they will have the chance to carry on.

The primary purpose of spring training is to get the athletes in a condition of readiness, arms, legs and muscles, for the campaign. What happens in a baseball way is incidental, a by-product, no one can, of course, no owner or manager ever risks it.

These 1929 Braves have been schooled into great muscular trim, and a couple of youths have been underneath who may make the star grade before many months slide off the calendar.

By and large, it has been a successful spring. There were spots of pessimism, but that feeling has been erased. The team has acquired a habit of coming through from behind, and that has restored at least one confidence.

This looks like a bell ringer that gives a good start, may work up really dangerous momentum. It has its possibilities, and he outfield man and boy, seems to realize that important little fact—their own.

The club has been blessed with more than the average amount of good new material, apart from regulars secured in trades and purchases from the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals.

RECRUITS LOOK GOOD
Hermie Moore, an infielder, will have a regular job when the season is half over, unless he blows part. Harry Johnston and Bruce Cunningham will be in there pitching winning ball games. And young Malar Leggett looks like a real big league catcher.

In addition to that, Johnny Cooney has come back, strong. He is likely to open the regular season in Boston. Johnny could always beat the Brooklyn club, and showed that he hadn't lost the knack in a couple of appearances down here.

Hank Gowdy, signed up as a coach, went to work, hammered himself into shape, and proved that he can catch just as well as he did in the good old days.

Heavenly cannot go in there each day, but he can catch two or three games a week. And there's still a better backup for young pitchers in the well-known land.

A lot of things looked bad for the Braves in their early training days, but enough good breaks came along to raise the lough ones. The club will be ready for the race, with real hope and spirit.

The Braves athletes played 21 ball games in Florida and won 11 of them, better than an even break.

'RED' CAGLE IN BAD AGAIN

West Point, N. T., April 2 (AP)—For the second time in three months, Christian Keener (Red) Cagle, all-American halfback last year and captain-in-act of the 1928 Army football team, has fallen into the bad grace of officials at the United States Military Academy.

The clause will-the-ward of the mid-diron, by his latest excesses, has drawn a sentence of 22 "punishments" for "conduct unbecoming a cadet." That means "Red" will devote approximately 22 hours of his spare time during the next month or so to mending at attention, about a 10-day gravel stretch, which is the equivalent of the academy.

The charge against Cagle this time was over-playing of a leave of absence. For a similar offense, he was sentenced to a half-month of punishment in 1928.

Mr. KNICKKNACK

Good Place to Read Postcards

By Don Herold

"MY DEAR, I AM IN COMPLETE SYMPATHY WITH YOUR DISAPPOINTMENT IN ME. BUT I AM NOT THE ONLY HUSBAND WHO FORGETS TO MAIL HIS WIFE'S LETTERS."

"IT IS A UNIVERSAL HABIT OF BUSY-MINDED HUSBANDS AND I AM GOING TO DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT IN A BIG WAY."

"LEAVE IT TO ME AND I'LL DEVELOP A KNICKKNACK TO REMIND HUSBANDS FORGETTING TO MAIL THEIR WIVES' LETTERS. I'LL DRY THE TEARS OF MILLIONS OF WOMANKIND."

"HOWE THIS IS A MUSIC-BOX TO CLIP ON MY AFTER-BREAKFAST CIGAR—TO HOLD YOUR LETTERS WHERE I WON'T FORGET TO MAIL 'EM."

"The sad thing about a college education," says Gracie, the kitchen epic, "is that so many graduates are over educated for their intelligence."

PROSPERITY NOTE

"Earl Walker, RKO cameraman, who recently purchased three elephants from the government of Siam on the installment plan, has already received several requests for the rental of the same. Earl is planning an elephant farm."

NO PROBLEM TOO COMPLEX FOR OUR MENTAL GIANTS!

"Congressman H. W. D. of Nebraska, has evolved a formula for a happy marriage. He said that each of the parties should promise at the time of marriage not to find fault with the other one. It has worked in his family for 40 years."

But think of what a tough time the congressman's wife has had these years.

It would be nice if Congressman Howard would turn his attention to the crime problem. If necessary, he could issue a statement, thus clearing up the situation.

The Rev. Mr. Wiley says: "When a man falls desperately in love the quickest way out of it is to get married."

Another bozo: "I'll be shootin' 'You're darn tootin'!"

FAMOUS LAST WORDS. Now, young fellow, let me tell you a thing or two—

STOMACH UPSET

Get it the fast way. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the trouble—poor digestion and disturbed bowels.

Have you a full, fast, cooled tongue, poor appetite, a sour, disagreeable feeling, no ambition or energy, when the above signs are present, take Olive Tablets, the substitute for olive oil.

With Olive Tablets you are sure to get it. Know them by their shape and size. They are the only pills that are so gentle and so effective.

THE ART OF BEING POPULAR

By Beatrice Fairfax

An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

It is wise, in working out problems of love, friendship and marriage, not to dwell too much on failure, but to note those who have succeeded and analyze the methods which brought them success. Applying the same method to your own difficulty may prove its solution.

With this idea in mind, I like to print, now and then, letters from young people who have found happiness and success in their friendship and romance. Here is a very optimistic letter from "A Happy Girl" of 1929:

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am 18 years of age and I go to business. I earn a medium salary as a stenographer and dress accordingly. That is, I do not pay exorbitant prices for my clothes, but I always dress neatly and somehow, becomingly, and my dresses are carefully pressed."

"I have gone out since I was 15 because I graduated from high school at that age and naturally, as soon as I went to business, I been invited out several nights to go with dozens of different boys."

"Now here is what I mean, all the time I have gone out I never could say as many of you readers do who sign themselves, 'conscience,' 'guilt' or 'pained,' that all my boy friends ask for a kiss and refuse to take me out again."

"I don't want to neck or pet, that's all nonsense. Those girls that haven't met the right boy, though I don't see how it's possible when there are so many nice young men."

"Nearly all my boy friends are over 22 and there is a particularly nice chap I go with who is only 20, yet he has never asked me for a kiss, and considers it a privilege when I allow him to put his arm around my shoulders. I dance and sing, and my friends do not consider me a party complete without me, because I am lively. I am a sport to the party of a cigarette now and then is the right company, yet I never go peeing or kissing."

"As a whole, I think the fellows of today are a fine lot of young men. And they do respect a respectable girl, for how can they help it?"

"Girls, don't despair. Dress nicely and neatly. Learn to dance well. Display a lively interest in modern fiction, current topics, and in other men or classical. Learn to play an instrument if possible and in general make yourselves so interesting that men won't want to change you."

"Alas, learn to banter in conversation. I know lots of girls who say, 'I can't.' But they could after trying. A fellow does not like a girl who can only answer 'Yes' or 'No,' but one who can answer coquettishly or at least cleverly. You know what I mean, girls—don't say you don't make fellows want to take you to good theaters, movies, dance, etc.—the kind I and so many other girls attend."

"Thank you, 'Happy Girl' for your message. Give your practical suggestions will help other girls who long for friendship and attention."

"Happy Girl" has discovered and put into practice many of the rules of charm, popularity and happiness. The dances will, she sings well, she is jolly, she can talk about books, plays and current events and she can "banter" as she expresses it. That is, she takes conversation lightly, finds it amusing, is ready to joke good-humoredly, does not disdain to use a little discriminating flattery."

Moreover, although she does not say so, I suspect that she has the secret of getting on with people. She likes other folks because she realizes they have the same hopes and fears, joys and problems that she has. For this reason she rubs them the right way, is sympathetic, friendly."

It is not necessary to make boom friends of everyone. A girl who is wise is discriminating about her intimate friendships. But she feels for all the friendliness born of sympathy and understanding."

She is not influenced by others except for the good she can learn from them. But she goes on her way, doing as she pleases, yet mingling amicably with all kinds of people. The successful, lovable girl is true to her best self—in a natural, and for very reason men like her and The One Man will adore her."

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

While in Franklin park zoo I overheard two youngsters. "Look at the chimpanzee," exclaimed one of the boys. "That ain't the chimpanzee," returned the other, "that's a hippopotamus. Can't you see he ain't got no radiator cap."

THE 'BAER' FACTS

By 'Bugs' Baer

SOME years ago we informed the suffering public that the Constitution was being chewed up by the mice of amendments.

The Constitution started out to be a fairly good road map. Now it is regarded as a scenario, subject to change without notice.

So many amendments have been tacked to the original chorus that the tail is now longer than the k.t.

And the string is busted. In spite of the fact that the preamble starts with the plural, we people, all the amendments have been very singular.

The Eighteenth Amendment states there shall be no cruel and unusual punishment visited upon the people.

Yet the Grassy Sprain Golf Club has an island hole that violates this business.

The general welfare and the blessings of liberty of 1787 were too astigmatic to foresee the lack of parking space of 1929.

The provisions for the common defense and the insurance of domestic tranquility were both rash homages of enthusiastic patriots.

At that time the founders of the nation could not realize that 150 years later it would be impossible to use your radio while the electric refrigerator was running.

In 1787 the American home was a castle.

It was supreme, the highest court in the land and the refuge of the exhausted.

Now the American home is an annex to a three-car garage.

We are forced to agree with Volstead, Jones or any other legislator who is anxious to buy anew dream for the Statue of Liberty.

We need more amendments in order to prevent the Constitution from getting the upper hand.

The Eighteenth Amendment is neither autocratic nor monarchial. You can still have liquid liberty—if you can afford it.

The Nineteenth gave women the right of voting. But none of somnolence.

The girls can vote for anybody

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

COLOR IN THE HOME

By LUCY LOWELL

It is because I just have returned from the decorator's shop that I feel this is a good time to state my belief that one of the most needed reforms of the past many years was the one which did away with color and number colors and put in their place the bright blues and greens and all shades of red and gold.

This, of course, applies not only to room furnishings but to dress as well. There was a time, not a million years ago, when a red bow at the throat, even with an entire black frock, was considered rather gay to be quite safe. As for a complete red dress and flame red at that—heaven!

And the result was that women went around looking dull and perhaps feeling dull (which surely cannot be said to them today).

Some of the same principle applies to our homes. Whereas walls once were papered in brown or tan, now they are painted in bright colors.

I would compromise war, I would compromise glory, I would compromise everything at that point where hate comes in, where misery comes in, where love ceases to be love, and life begins its descent into the valley of the shadow of death. But I would not compromise Truth. I would not compromise the right.

The passions are the only orators that always persuade; they are as it were, a natural art, the rules of which are inflexible, and the simplest man with passion is more persuasive than the most eloquent without it.—Le Rousseau.

A New Menace

The Latest Scheme to Plunge the United States Into the League of Nations Should Be Junked by President Hoover

Now, as always, "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

If you doubt it, look at the latest scheme to plunge the United States into the League of Nations through the trapdoor of its private court.

This scheme, sponsored by no less a lawyer than Elihu Root, has been endorsed by the highest officials of the League. It cuts the heart out of the fifth condition to the Senate's ratification of the League Court protocol.

It was provided in reservation No. 5 of the Senate's resolution of ratification that the League Court should not "without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has any claim or interest."

Of course the Senate had no mandate from the American people to ratify the court protocol even conditionally.

It was, in fact, a defiance of their mandate several times expressed at the polls.

But when the members of the League refused to accept reservation No. 5 this country was saved from the Senate's folly. We were out of the League and out of the Court.

Then, in the closing days of his administration, President Coolidge, most unfortunately, revived the attempt to get the League to accept reservation No. 5. This the League has refused to do.

But after consultation with Mr. Root a new reservation has been drawn up which the League will accept. This substitutes for the veto power of reservation No. 5 the consent of the League for the United States to withdraw from the Court, rather than accept an advisory opinion to which it objects or might object.

If President Hoover is well advised he will junk this League reservation as soon as Mr. Root takes it to the White House.

But if President Hoover fails the country and sends this new scheme to the Senate with his approval, then the Senate must not fail the nation. It will then become the duty of the Senate to reject the League's revision of reservation No. 5.

There is no time to lose in disposing of this new menace to American independence. And the sooner President Hoover makes up his mind what he is going to do with the League reservation the better it will be for the country.

Both the Senate and the nation are entitled, as we believe, to prompt action by the President in this vital matter.

The Proper Spirit

Former Mayor Peters Discovers It in His Fellow Citizens

Former Mayor Peters, heard altogether too infrequently between campaigns, addressed the Boston League of Women Voters on "Some Problems of a Modern City."

Having solved many municipal problems with conspicuous and memorable success, Mr. Peters is well equipped to talk about them.

Our former mayor finds every indication of a continued growth of large centers of population. The development in size, he says, is inevitably accompanied by a congregating which the "perverse ingenuity of architects" favors and accentuates. The remedy? The key to relief, he believes, is distribution, and the "key to distribution is TRANSPORTATION."

This may help some willing legislator to appreciate the importance of the Elevated problem, now—as ever—before the General Court.

And then Mr. Peters preached a bit of a sermon which should be of help to all of us.

"More important than any development in our city should be the development and strengthening of the moral and political fiber of our people. You cannot legislate a good government upon a people. Neither a constitution nor a code of laws will produce it.

"Good government must rest on the ideals and standards of the people themselves. The stream of political life can never rise above the spring which is its source, and the source of political strength is in the standards and ideals of the people.

"Children should be taught what our Government means, and in what its strength lies.

"They should be brought up to realize that democracy is not a form of government from which simply benefits can be taken, such as freedom of action, freedom of religion, protection of property and these other 'great advantages' which we have; but that it can survive only if the citizens recognize that they OWE duties as well."

It is his honor, the former mayor, discouraged, downhearted, pessimistic?

"No one can have been for four years in the office of mayor," he told the ladies, "without appreciating the great spirit of the American people, or without grasping the struggle that is going on to better conditions."

In other words, we mean right and gradually—very gradually—we are beginning to get somewhere.

Worth of Wealth

Mrs. Phoebe David of Brooklyn left her four children in a delicate illness and the stipulations were strict. They tried to divide the income of almost $1,000,000 among them, but stipulated that if any married without the consent of the family the bequest would be reduced by half.

Although the aged lady must have been inspired by the highest motive, the stipulations were unfair. They tend to deprive the young men and women of the right to select their own mates, which is the right of a man or woman nowadays. They furnish a basis for the thought when the grandchildren that the marriage may not be so wholly based on love.

Ten chances to one Mrs. David's heirs will marry as they choose and their choices will be approved by their family and the bequest will add to their happiness. But the man or woman who wed without calling a canon of relatives is just as likely, if not more so, to find happiness in marriage as one who is bound by a majority vote of the family.

The Scientist's Eye

By GARRETT P. SKERVIS

"SCIENTIST" is a disagreeable word, but it seems to be needed, for "science" exactly fits the case, besides being attitudinal.

The scientist, then, has become a great object of human curiosity in recent years. He is a modern product of mental evolution. Our fathers and grandfathers knew no scientists, only philosophers.

Even when we of the passing generation were children the scientists of nature and her laws were "natural philosophy." And for the majority it was more interesting than his successor, "physics," is today. The scientist now, with their can harden mathematical tools, have tunneled themselves out of the popular view.

They can no longer be seen, like the philosophers of old, painting the gold of new discoveries from sunshiny placers. Sir Humphrey

Day, still called himself "philosopher," and John Tyndall did not dissuade the name. The public loved them—and that is an affection which modern scientists come to

of their holes to envy.

But when the modern scientist emerges and wanders in light he brings with him a sort of atmosphere which casts a glamour over the common sense of the upper world. How curiously he regards the world as he is as vulgar eyes. How curiously he regards
